In spring, look for nearly ten duck species. A large colony of Ring-billed and California Gulls is typically on nearby "Gull Island" by early May. Forster's and Caspian Terns may be found in the colony. If Big Hole Bay is flooded, spring migration also brings various grebes, American White Pelican, Double-crested Cormorant, and diving ducks. In late summer, look for Least, Western, and Solitary Sandpipers. Baird's Sandpiper arrive in large flocks around the first week of July. Watch for Stilt Sandpiper mixed in with Lesser Yellowlegs during Aug. and Sept. Check mudflats during fall migration for over 30 species including Great Blue Heron, Great and Snowy Egrets, and Black-crowned Night-Heron. Bald Eagle can be seen during the winter.
